Omens in Tea.

When the tea is made and the lid of the teapot is forgotten for a minate or two, it is a sure sign that some one will drop in for the meal. Two spoons put by chance into the saucer of a maid or a bachelor denote that he or she will be married within a year. Putting cream into your tea before you sweeten it will bring you love troubles. A tea stalk floating in a girl's teacup is a "beau," She should stir her tea briskly and then hold the spoon upright in the center. If the "beau" be attracted toward the spoon and cling to it a gentleman visitor may be expected some time that evening. If, however, the "beau" goes to the side of the cup the visitor will not come that day.

Chambers of Commerce. Foreign chambers of commerce are of Austro-Hungarian origin, for in-1870 the first Austro-Hungarian Champer of Commerce was opened in Constantinople; afterward similar institutions were opened in Alexandria. Paris and London. In the spring of 1903 an Austro-Hungarian Chamber of Commerce was opened in Melbourne. The English, adopting the example of the Austrians, founded a Chamber of Commerce in Paris. The Austrians have been far surpassed in number of these institutions by the English who now have thirty in foreign countries and 100 in their own colonies The United States has Chambers of Commerce in laris, Brussels, Lon don, Berlin, Sydney and Shanghai.

IN A PRAIRIE LAND.

Moose Jaw, Assiniboia.

Farmers' Review. Chicago, July 22, 1903.

Most of the prairies in the United States have ceased to exist. Man has broken them up with orchards, forests and farm buildings. But in Western Canada the prairies still stretch grandly from horizon to horizon as yet unmarred by the hand of man, save where the iron road has been laid. To a city man there is something deliciously restful about the vast grassy solitudes.

Numerous clumps of trees mark the course of the Assiniboine river, which keeps in sight of the railroad for some

"Grass is one of the notable things about all the landscape of Western Canada. It is a remarkable fact that the entire length of the Canadian Pacific railway from its eastern terminus to the Rocky Mountains is over plains where grass grows. The sage brush appears at some points, but never to the exclusion of grass. There is thus not a mile of this country that cannot be used for some agricultural purpose-either for tilling or ranch-

"Moose Jaw is a town of over 2,000 inhabitants, and one of the most important places in Assiniboia, being the center of a very good farming country and a great grain and stock shipping point.

"Near Moose Jaw agriculture and ranching go hand in hand; for near the town was seen a herd of beef cattle several hundred in number. On another side was seen a good sized herd of dairy cows, the property of the citizens in the town.

"In riding over the prairies we saw many good fields of alfalfa. The great need of the country is timber, which grows readily where planted, as was demonstrated by the shelter belts on some of the farms, and the trees on the residence lots in the town.

"Stories were told the writer of men who last year cleared from their wheat crop more than the land on which it was grown originally cost them. This is easy to believe, in view of the large crop and high price for wheat last year."-Henry F. Thurston.

DOLLARS AND CENTS. It's dollars and cents that rule the world
With greed as the nursing bed;
But there's a banner that's still unfurled furled
With hearts as the fountain head—
The banner of love for a fellow man
And hope for a zeal intense
To keep humanity in the van
And discount dollars and cents.

For dollars and cents won't always win And wield such a potent sway; There's somethirs, else that is coming in And love wil avail some day.
Old clubs are trumps at the present time In all the different marts, But coming sure is the world a rhyme, And the trumps will all be hearts.

For there's nothing else in life, my boy,
That nature's art so deft.
Can bring you sunshine, hope, and joy,
Like the throb-beat on your left;
It's all there is in the world of strife
With trials and griefs immense—
You can take some love at the close of life.

Range for Geese.

We have never raised large flocks of geese for market purposes. A few years ago we decided to raise geese because we liked the birds and thought they would no doubt prove a source of income, as well as our other stock. We chose the large Toulouse, or "dry-land geese," as many farmers call them, and since we have become better acquainted with these valuable birds have become enthusiastic fanciers of the breed. We not only have a number of flocks out on farms, but annually rear a goodly flock at home. A goose will no doubt thrive on any kind of green forage, but a good bluegrass pasture is undoubtedly he best and most substantial range or them. We have never used a cerain number of acres for a certain number of geese, but use one pasture for horses, cows, pigs and geese, as we never aim to run stock enough to impoverish the same. The range is at all times during the forage season good. Geese graze like cattle; that is, they can live on grass during the summer; but we always feed the old birds a little grain at nights—usually whole corn. The young or growing stock is well fed on mash and later or neumonia make their angearance. impoverish the same. The range is to push growth; always find it pays. to push growth; always find it pays. If the geese were intended alone for the tabi. it wight not be profitable to feed quite so liberally is a pound or two more on a hird would not be two more on a bird would not be worth so much, but from the fancier's standpoint, pounds mean dollars when added to a large specimen. However, it costs little if any more to put a pound on a goose than on any other farm animal which all thrifty farmers know should be done. We believe one could not miss the right number of geese far that a certain number of acres—a good pasture would support by taking cattle as the standard. For instance a goose would states. Poultry in Orchards. Here and there we have seen apple and plum orchards being used for poultry yards. The plum orchard seems to be the favorite. There are several advantages in favor of this combination. In the first place it try yard, and this is a feature well worth considering. Then the hens keep the ground pretty well clear of weeds and this removes the necessity for cultivation. This would apply more to a full grown orchard than to a young one, for in the case of the growing orchard it is best to cultivate during the early years to compel the roots to strike deeply. A plum orchard used as a poultry park should be in its best condition for bearing be in its best condition for bearing fruit. If the fowls are quite numerous the droppings will be no inconsiderable item in the fertilization of the orchard. Late in the summer it would be possible to sow some cover crop. which would serve both as feed for the poultry and as a protection to the roots of the trees. On most soils such sowing could be made without cultivating, the hos having kept the some tenacity that it falls to pieces.

When a man's ways please this lost world it is time to line them up with the will of the Lord. Many men stick to a good thing with so much tenacity that it falls to pieces.

Salt in the Poultry Feed.

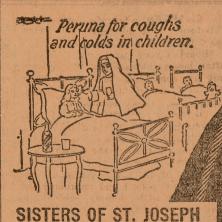

There is a prevalent notion that salt is poisonous to fowls, and this popular impression is based on many unhappy experiences with it when fed too liberally. THERE is no question but that a large part of the losses by fire are due to carelessness or shabby workmanship. And there is also no question but that the readiness with which the subject is dismissed when it is announced, in connection with a fire, that the loss is covered by insurance, shows a lack of knowledge, or a lack of thought, as to the nature of insurance. A fire loss is a real loss, and somebody has to pay it. In the end the people pay it, for what the insurance companies lose they must make up in higher rates or else themselves become insecure. It is something to demand serious private and governmental consideration when the fire losses as the United States and Canada amount, in a single year, to the enormous sum of $152,000,000, as they did in 1903. There is a grain of hope for better things in the fact that this was $9,000,000 less than the losses of 1902 and $21,000,000 less than those of 1900, but proper supervision ought to reduce the loss far beyond those figures

IT is unfortunate, or at least uncomfortable, for a mortal to know too much more than his fellow mortals. The jealous deities get exasperated, and in the end they take the conceit out of him. That seems to be the experience of Prof. Oscar L. Triggs, the critical genius of Chicago University, who consigned Longfellow and Lowell to literary limbo, and sent the "doggerel" hymn-books after them, to make a place on the shelves for Rockefeller and Pullman by the side of Shakespeare. A soulless corporation has not only failed to reward him, it has actually dropped him, and this, too, without any provision, so far as is known, against his falling heavily upon the hard and uneven lumps that strew the pathway of daily life. The next giltedged university that secures Prof. Triggs' services will find him strictly non-committal on the subject of poetry.

"Salvation," replies.Mr. Rockefeller, "is a question which depends upon whether the man possesses the gold or the gold possesses the man." It would be difficult to find, in all the commentaries, a clearer or more simple exegesis of the scripture doctrine, and for once the critics who seem to consider Mr. Rockefeller legitimate game are silenced. But next Sunday some other crank will come along asking the same old threadbare question, which was evidently not altogether new even in Christ's time. Whatever else may be disallowed, Mr. Rockefeller should be credited with the Christian virtue of unlimited patience.

American flour from the far eastern market. No one, who has not kept posted upon the rapid development of the trans-Siberian railway region, can realize the immense capacity of that region for grain and cattle raising, and the readiness with which, as fast as transportation facilities are afforded, its products can be supplied to the non-wheat raising peoples. Mr. Jas. J. Hill's foresight will be better appreciated the more this question of eastern markets is studied.

ONE by one our new industries make us independent of foreign supply, and often give us a better article than we were able to get abroad. This, it is thought, will be the case with the matter of bulb raising on the Pacific coast, where sections of the country in Washington and Oregon offer even more favorable conditions of climate and soil for the growing of tulips, hyacinths and other bulbs than Holland itself To such a section Holland immigration would be far more strongly attracted than to the desolate veldt land of South Africa and even the Boers themselves might find a better location for their projected colo nies than in Mexico or South America.

IT looks as if it would be a sort of potand-kettle business between Cleveland and Chicago. At any rate, the Ohio city will wait awhile before it points the finger of scorn at the city where they do not know the taste of unboiled water, for the water in the new five mile tunnel at Cleveland is found to be infested with typhoid germs, and several hundred cases of the fever are reported in the city. Five miles was supposed to be far enough from shore for the intake to be free from contamination, but present conditions show how little we re-'ally know of undercurrents and the operations of the law of diffusion.

It is no wonder that our Revolutionary leaders caught up that verse. Cooper preached a sermon from that text in 1780. which Franklin translated into French and into German and scattered broadcast through Europe, the first "campaign document" of the newborn republic, the lesson of republicanism, the lesson of democracy It announced to man that theory of government, "the government of the people, helm, why, "we, the people," take care of 'us, the people," of the whole and not of a class or an order. Here is a government "for the people and by the people," and in Mr. Hanna you have a man of the people who really believes in such democracy or the purpose of any republic. If you want Benjamin Franklin, take Benjamin Franklin, though it be from a tallow chandler's shop. If you want Abraham Lincoln, you shall have Abraham Lincoln. In that comes the system for which he had consecrated himself, to which he was allied, and in which he was looking forward, working heartily through all his career.

I remember in the canvass eight years ago a distinguished leader of enterprise met with one of the campaign speakers of the summer and said to him,"Tell me, who is thisCleveland man-thls man who seems to have the reins in his hands?" And the accomplished gentleman whom he addressed said: "This Cleveland man is a man who is going to elevate politics to the level of those men of business who are men of honor." I wonder if either of them remembers the conversation now. That described Mr. Hanna then. That is the duty of the statesman of to-day-of the manager, if you please to call him so, of to-day—that he shall elevate the duty of the day to the standard of the men of honor who are engaged in business.

It is for a people that you are caring, not for a class. Government means that the postoffice shall be well administered, that the sanitary conditions of the people shall be well administered, that what they drink shall be pure, that what they eat shall not be poison to them. It is the people who have sent you to this work, and it is as you love the people or as you love yourself alone that you are going to succeed or that you are going to fail.

This man was one of the people. He loved the people. What he did he did for his love of the people, and he knew-because he was one of them, because he had succeeded in business-he knew what are the eternities. ### THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

LESSON IX, FIRST QUARTER, INTERNA-TIONAL SERIES, FEB. 28.

Text of the Lesson, Matt. vii, 21-29. Memory Verses, 24, 25-Golden Text. Jas. i, 22-Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1903, by American Press Association.] The gospel by Matthew is specially the gospel of the kingdom, that kingdom of which the Old Testament has so much to tell us. when a King shall reign in righteousness and the work of righteousness shall be peace, and the offect of righteousness, quietness and assurance forever. The name of the King shall be Jehovah-Isidkenu, the Lord our Righteousness; He shall reign and prosper and shall execute judgment and justice in the earth. His throne shall be the throne of David at Jerusalem, and He shall be King over all the earth (Isa. xxxii, 1, 17; ix, 6, 7) Jer. iii, 17; xxiii, 5, 6; Zech. xiv, 9). If any one would be truly thrilled and lifted above present things and circumstances, let him become acquainted with the King and the kingdom, with whom and to which every redeemed person is a joint heir, the kingdom which shall include all the kingdoms of this world, with a King before whom all kings shall fall down and whom all nations shall serve (Rev. xi,

Nothing more thrilling or inspiring was ever written, and the God of Truth Himself wrote this (II Tim. iii, 16, 17). In Matt. v-vii the King has given us the laws of the kingdom, that kingdom which is not meat and drink, but righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Ghost (Rom. xiv. 17). The opening words assert that poverty of spirit is a characteristic of those who belong to it. Compare Isa. lvii, 15; lxvi, 2. He also said that the righteousness necessary to enter it must exceed that of the scribes and Pharisees (v. 20) and must be such as meets the requirements of the true spirit of the law, not that of mere words, but deeds which are righteous before God, who seeth in secret. "Not every one that saith, * * * but he that doeth the will of My Father which is in heaven," are the opening words of our lesson and the beginning of the close of His ad-

That we may more fully appreciate the words we must remember who the speaker is. Note His oft repeated "I say unto you," corresponding with the "Thus saith the Lord" of the Old Testament, for He is the Lord of Hosts, the God of Israel, the Creator, the only Redeemer, the Judge of all mankind. He is the one of whom the Father said at His baptism, "This is My Beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased," and at the transfiguration He added, "Hear ye Him" (Matt. iii, 17; xvii, 5). He Himself said, "The Father judgeth no man, but hath committed all judgment unto the Son" (John v, 22). I seek to emphasize this because there are so many teachers and preachers who, professing to be His friends, not only dis honor the word which He so honored. but dishonor Him, not believing His words, and thus dishonor the Father, too, for all His words were just what the Father told Him to say (John xii.

But however much people may profess to be His friends and to do works in His name, here is His own testimony that He will have to say to them. "I never knew you; depart from Me, ye that work iniquity" (verse 23). He has told us elsewhere that He will have to say to some. "Depart from Me. ye cursed, into everlasting fire, prepared for the devil and his angels (Matt. xxv. 41). After the solemn warning that He will have to say to some. "De part!" He speaks again in grace that all who will may flee from the wrath to come. All who hear the gospel either obey or disobey; they either take refuge in Christ, who is the Truth, or, turning from Him, they accept some of the many prevailing delusions of the devil and make lies their refuge.

The latter passage gives the further truth that even those who are on the sure foundation and are therefore eternally safe have need to be careful of that which they are building day by day lest they may see their works burned up and they themselves saved as by fire. The works must be "God working in us" the works which He hath before prepared for us (Eph. ii. 10; Phil. ii, 13; Col. i, 29), else all may prove wood, hay and stubble.

Returning to the first part of our lesson and the matter of "doing the will of God," we must remember that our Lord was talking to disciples (chapter v, 1, 2), for He never talks to the unsaved of "doing." When the unsaved asked Him one day, "What shall we do that we might work the works of God?" His reply was to the effect that the only work for them was to believe on Him whom God had sent (John vi, 28, 29). On salvation by faith apart from any works of ours see Rom. 111, 24; iv, 5; Eph. ii, 8, 9; Tit. iii, 5; then on the works which must and will follow see Eph. ii, 10; Tit. iii, 8; Jas. ii, 14-26.

May we ever listen to the words of the Spirit in this infallible book, whether they come to us through prophets apostles or Christ Himself, as words of authority, even the authority of God. There are before us a glorious morning and an awful night, but there is no morning for those who despise the word of God (Isa. xxi, 11, 12; viii, 20, revised version). No one is a child of God and a joint heir with Christ who has not received Christ as his own Saviour, putting all his trust as a sinner in the precious blood of the atonement (John i, 12; I John v, 12; Lev. xvii, 11; Heb. ix, 22); but, having thus become a part of Him and His kingdom, His works in us must be so manifest that men may glorify Him in us (chapter v. 16).

Thirty of the leading contractors, builders, carpenters and plumbers of Ann Arbor have bound themselves to maintain the open shop the coming season. The unions' exactions had become too burden some. In one case, a man's own son did a little work on his house that needed to be done before the workmen would get around to it, and before the union men would go on with the house, the man had to let them take out the work, which had been well done, and do it over no better than it was before.

Early Closing. To the Editor of The Ypsilantian

In discussions of the subject of early closing we hear a great deal of the clerks' ong hours and their deprivation of evening privileges, but is there not something to be said also in behalf of that part of the trading public which is obliged to do its shopping after working hours? The merchants and the people who can command their time may be left out of the question, for the same amount of goods will be needed and sold without reference to hours and people of leisure do not usually take the time after supper to do their shopping, But the factory girl, the day laborer, every one whose working hours extend to six o'clock, is discriminated against if the stores are closed during the only hours when they are at liberty. Take the case of the factory girls. They must either take their dinner time for shopping at a time when there is almost no one to wait on them, or else they must put their shopping over till Saturday night and take their chances in a crowd. Such an arrangement gives them nothing like a fair chance to do their shopping economically or satisfactorily. The same is true of the laboring man. Often he must himself attend to the shopping, or he must attend to the children while the wife does it; at any rate, he must have a chance somewhere to look after his needs. So it comes to be a question as to whether the many or the few, the laboring people or the clerks, shall be put to inconvenience No one, surely, wishes to make life burdensome to the clerks. But is the case so very bad? Two hours extra in the even ing is, of course, a burden, but may not that burden be lightened by lessening the force after six o'clock, giving the clerks in turn, say two evenings off in a week? All public entertainments are purposely put at an hour when the clerks' duties are supposed to be over, so that the plea that they are shut out from everything does not really hold. But while the clerks' griev ances may be somewhat lessened, it is not easy to see how the convenience of the laboring people is to be provided for where early closing is adopted. The burden of toil is heavy enough for all of us; in adjusting it let us not forget the interests of those who have the least opportunity to look out for themselves. OBSERVER.

Pneumonia in Chicago. Over 3000 people died of pneumonia in Chicago last year. In every case the disease resulted from a cold. Had the cold been promptly and properly treated at the outset almost everyone would have recovered. This statement is abundantly proven by the fact that among the tens of thousands throughout this country who use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to cure their colds, no case of pneumonia has ever been reported, which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventive of oneumonia. Chamberlain's Cough Rem edy has gained its wide reputation and enormous sale by the prompt and effectual cures of colds and can always be depended upon. For sale by Frank Smith.

The Hanna Funeral.

Cleveland was again a city of deep ourning Friday. Business was pracically suspended and a very large proportion of the population paid homage to the memory of Senator Marcus

A Hanna. Just four weeks ago today Senator Hanna left his home city for the national capital, happy in the thought of his triumphant revolection to the senate. The last rites were held at St. Paul's Episcopal church, corner of Euclid and Case avenues. During this solemn service, Cleveland was a silent city. Nearly all business was suspended for the entire afternoon. You do not state if the cabbage seed was of early or late variety, but day—the bright, charming, hopelessly should judge that it was a case of late cabbage seed sown early. Many plants that are classed as biennials will flower and seed as do annuals especially if started early and given a long growing season. This is true with cabbage, cauliflower and celery to a larger degree than with many other kinds of plants. Should the cabbage start to crack open and develon a seed stalk, it may be checked by lifting the plant with a fork or bending the plant over enough to break the strong cap and side roots. This is often done through a long wet season when cabbage is making a too rank grewth.

Unseen Tragedies Read from Tracks in the Snow.

If you will follow a mink's track in the snow any winter day it will usually lead you before long to the mute story of a tragedy, just some trampled snow and a red stain. The whole method of the mink's hunting is told by the snow. We see how it follows a rabbit, taking every precaution not to betray its presence while the wretched creature feeds, for then it s alert; how it follows bunny to where it sleeps beneath a log, an upturned root or the snow-covered top of a fallen tree, and then stealthily creeps on the unsuspecting prey. How sometime the rustling of a dead leaf warns the rabbit, who leaps forward perhaps just in time to avoid the furious onslaught of the mink, though more often too late and the red stain tells us that the rabbit has been eaten where it expected to sleep.

To answer this question some interesting experiments have been made, and the following results were obtained: Birch and aspen decayed in three years, willow and horse-chestnut in four years, maple and red beech in five years, elm and ash in seven years; oak, Scottish fir, and Weymouth pine decayed to the depth of half an inch in seven years; larch and juniper were uninjured at the expiration of the seven years. THE BUSINESS MEN'S ASSOCIATION

Superb Banquet and Good Speeches Once a year it is the custom of the Business Men's Association to hold a banquet, and for the time to dismiss all thought of ledgers and bills payable and receivable. Several such banquets have been held, but the one on Monday evening at Cleary College, by common consent, overlaid all preceding ones in completeness of preparation and the good cheer which marked the progress of the different events. One hugdred and thirty sat at tables burdened with all the substantials and delicacies which heart could wish.

After satisfying the demands of appetite on the feast of fat things without the wine on the leas, Hon, John P. Kirk was introduced as toastmaster, and the exultant spirit with which he entered upon the discharge of his duties was evidence that he carried a full hand, and proposed to make it lively for the auditors whether the speakers were happy or not,

The first on the program was the toast, 'The Ypsilanti Press," referring to the city daily which for several months has been incubating in this town. It is really refreshing to listen to a man with unbound ed and unquestioning faith in the project which he is expected to advocate, and that, too, whether his faith is predicated on the substance of things hoped for or not. Such was evidently the confidence of Professor O'Ooge, who was called upon to respond. Cloquently did our respected professor emphasize his thought in favor of a daily paper, and left the clear inference that he considered such a messenger from the to restore the broken walls and cover the city's vacant area with happy homes. The Ladies' Literary Club Dinner. The banquet of the Ladies' Literary Club at the Country Club Monday evening was one of the prettiest functions ever given by the club. The clubhouse was beautifully decorated with flags and bunting, and press as the one thing needful to the city | the table flowers were red, white and blue carnations, Mrs. Norton having prepared the blue flowers especially for the club. The affair was in charge of Mesdames Clifford, Pease, Cleary and Paton, and Miss Abigail Lynch. The favors were little hatchets, with a bunch of cherries painted on one side and the name of the club on the other. Most of the club members were in colonial costume, with powdered hair of the Michigan Central will have no fur- and antique jewelry. The grand march ther trouble in finding a house where the was a very pretty function. Indeed, as the president, Prof. Julia A. King, said, the club was not there for literary work. but Far be it from us to intimate that the for fun, and only fun, and the tripping of professor would knowingly say a thing to the light fantastic toe. Robison Wins the Interstate Contest.

Ypsilanti and the high school are rejoic ing this week in the brilliant victory won in the interstate oratorical contest at Cleve-Jamestown, N. Y., and Detroit Central Ex-Alderman VanFossen, whose toast son very warmly on the high character of ing the speakers are Rose Hoover, Ida was "Beautifying the City," stirred the au- his oration. L Eaton, did not arrive until late at night by the electric road. The disappointment was great, but the banquet was held and a good time enjoyed. The welcome was given in chapel this morning, and another banquet will be arranged for later. The Estabrook society will probably do something handsome in celebration of their member's victory, besides. McKee Robison was born in Ypsilanti town, nearly eighteen years ago. He is counted one of the ablest students in the high school, taking high rank in all the studies of the classical course, in which he is in his junior year. He is quiet and studious, but a general favorite. He belongs to the Estabrook society, the Austin George athletic association. His tastes lie in the direction of debate rather than oratory, and his recent success in the mock trial showed him to be a masterly debater. Ypsilanti has reason to be proud of him, and will take a keen interest in his future.

Mrs. Mary Hewitt Cheever died Friday and has lived in this city all her life. She had three children, Prof. W. H. Cheever, deficits for recent years, beginning with professor in the state Normal school at the end of the free-trade period: Milwaukee, Wis.; Mrs. Frances C. Burton of the Normal College, and Mrs. F. A. Todd. She was devoted to her family and friends, and while her strength permitted, was active in the work of St. Luke's church, of which she was for many years a member. She will be sincerely mourned by a large circle of friends. Her children and two brothers, Edmund and Prof. Walter Hewitt, survive her. The funeral was held Sunday afternoon.
